Study Overview

What is MODIA?

MODIA is an investigational digital therapy designed for people with opioid use disorder. Investigational means scientists and doctors are still testing MODIA to see if using it may have possible benefits. MODIA is a unique software program that will teach you healthy coping strategies and skills on your recovery journey from opioid use disorder. Participants are randomly assigned to receive access to MODIA or not.

What will happen during the study?

- Participation lasts about 6 months
- Attend 25 scheduled study visits
- Answer questions about your health
- Provide urine samples at weekly study visits
- Take opioid use disorder medication as instructed by the study staff
- Use MODIA 1-2 times a week for 15 - 30 minutes a day (if assigned)
  - You will be randomly assigned to receive access to MODIA or not
  - If you do not receive access to MODIA during the study, you may be able to receive access after the study is complete

Key Eligibility Criteria

You may qualify for the OXD01-001 study if you meet the following requirements:

- Overall good health
- 18 to 65 years of age
- Positive urine drug test for opioids at your first visit
- Want to begin taking opioid use disorder medication (buprenorphine/naloxone)
- Able and willing to use and enter information about yourself in a web-based program

Other requirements will apply.
